Cultivation, soil, and weather conditions bear an important part in the success of any garden, even with the best bulbs and roots. Therefore, it is agreed that in no case shall we be liable for more than the amount actually paid for the bulbs or roots.

The varieties listed in this catalog are the better ones. The stock is excellent, therefore those who order will not be disappointed.

Dahlias Are Among the Best of the Late Flowers.

Dahlias

For those planting Dahlias for the first time this spring a word as to the culture is added with the hope of insuring the joy of success. The soil need not be very rich, a sandy or gravelly soil suits them best, as any good garden soil. It should be well prepared, to a good depth. Do not manure very heavily as it will develop the growth of foliage instead of flowers. Plant the tubers about two and one-half feet apart and cover with four to six inches of earth. They may be planted after the frost is over, late May or early June.

When the buds appear, in late August, is a good time to give them a tonic to develop the bloom. A tablespoonful of nitrate of soda spread about the base of the plant will be a wonderful tonic.

After frost in the fall dig the tubers very carefully, be sure not to break the neck. Store in a dry, cool cellar for the winter. Divide the roots to one eye before planting in the spring.

Decorative Dahlias

Decorative Dahlias are the largest flowering of any type. The petals are long, broad and flat. The flowers are double and full to the center. As a garden flower or for cutting to brighten indoors the decorative type will be a pleasure.

200 D. M. Moore. Dark maroon and very large flowers. The plants are dwarf and a very free bloomer; of excellent form. 50c each; 3 for $1.30, post-paid.

201 Doctor H. L. Tevis. Salmon rose to old-gold, shading to a beautiful apricot. The flowers are large and carried on strong long stems. This is a very popular variety and justly so, being one of the finest of all Dahlias. $1.00 each; 3 for $2.70, post-paid.

- 216 Stunner. Canary-yellow; a very rich, clear color. A large flower of good form and habit. This is a very striking flower, and as the name would imply, thought very well of by a great many. $1.00 each; 3 for $2.70, postpaid.
- 220 A collection of Decorative Dahlias consisting of one root of each of the following varieties: D. M. Moore, Hortulanus Fiet, Mina Burtle, Mrs. C. H. Breck, Princess Juliana. If purchased separately would cost considerably more than the collection price of $2.15, postpaid.

If the grower desires to have the large blooms seen at Dahlia exhibits it is necessary to give additional care to the plants. The plants should be pruned by cutting out some of the branches and the laterals immediately below the flower bud; remove all but one bud on each shoot. Only disbud the decorative, cactus, peony-flowered and show types.

Cactus Dahlias

The true Cactus type flowers are double, with long, narrow, twisted petals. The Hybrid Cactus type petals are shorter with a broad flat appearance. The Cactus type are much appreciated because of their lasting quality after cutting.

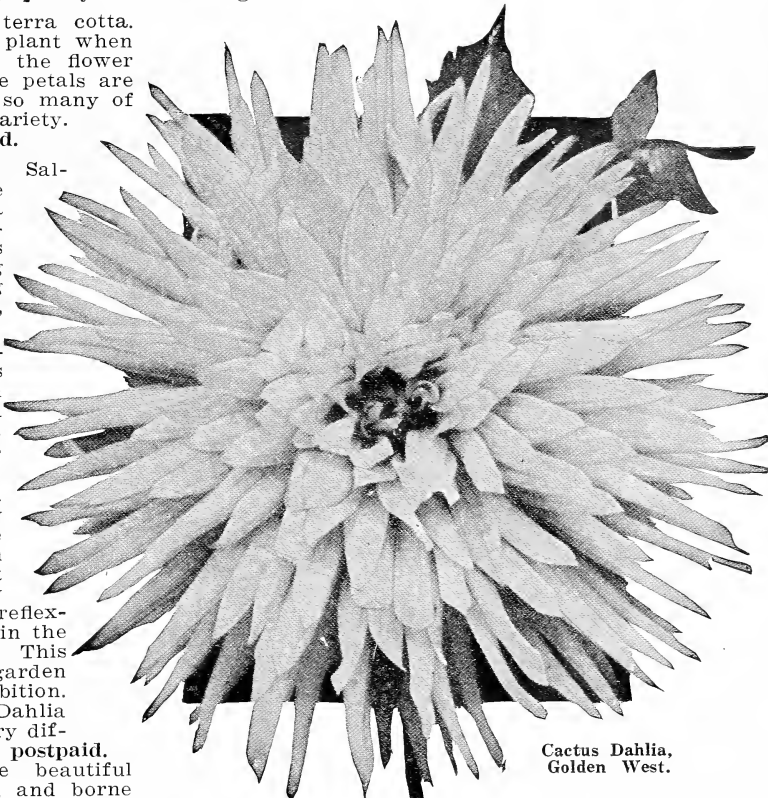

225 E. W. Fellows. Orange or terra cotta. This makes a most gorgeous plant when full of blooms. The size of the flower makes it very attractive. The petals are long and incurved, and ever so many of them. This is a very good variety. 75c each; 3 for $1.90, postpaid.

226 Geo. Walters. Hybrid Cactus. Salmon-pink, yellow at base of the petals. A lovely flower and a free bloomer. The form is excellent and the large blooms are borne on extra strong stems. This is a very pleasing variety. 75c each; 3 for $1.90, postpaid.

227 Gladys Sherwood. Hybrid Cactus. Pure white. The blooms are very large, and borne on good strong stems. This is a very fine variety of Dahlia. $1.50 each; 3 for $4.00, postpaid.

228 Golden West. Hybrid Cactus. Rich yellow to orange. A very strong grower, producing the wonderful large blooms on strong, stiff stems, and most profusely. The flower is very broad with the outer petals reflexing somewhat; they are high in the center, making it very deep. This is the wonder Dahlia, as a garden plant, for cutting or for exhibition. There is a Decorative type Dahlia bearing the same name but very different. 50c each; 3 for $1.30, postpaid.

229 Homer. Rich maroon. The beautiful blooms are of excellent form, and borne on strong, stiff stems, holding the bloom upright. The petals are incurved. 50c each; 3 for $1.30, postpaid.

There are times when our customers would like to have suggestions pertaining to their gardens. Please feel at liberty to write us your problems, and we will try to help you, as we have helped others, to obtain that desired pleasing effect.

Gladioli

They are very easily grown and may be planted as early as the ground can be worked. For a longer blooming season, plant a few every two weeks up to July. A good garden soil is suitable for good results, prepared deeply. Plant about four inches deep, five to six inches apart in the rows, rows about one foot apart.

They are well suited for all gardens, may be planted in rows, masses or bunched three or four in the border, making a very attractive appearance however planted. As cut flowers they last a remarkably long time, every bud will develop into a beautiful flower.

Primulinus Hybrids

The flowers are much smaller than the other Gladioli, but the blooms have a graceful air, and a pleasing form. Sometimes they produce three or four flower spikes from a single bulb planted in the spring.

- 310 Fire Queen. A bright orange-vermilion with light yellow in the throat. 25c each; 3 for 65c; 12 for $2.00; 25 for $3.50, postpaid.
- 311 Orange Beauty. A very showy orange on long stems. 25c each; 3 for 65c; 12 for $2.00; 25 for $3.50, postpaid.
- 312 Maidens Blush. A delicate shell pink; a very likable flower. 25c each; 3 for 65c; 12 for $2.00; 25 for $3.50, postpaid

A successful garden must be started with good, strong, healthy bulbs, roots, or plants. With our stock we aim for quality first, and believe it to be the best obtainable, regardless of price.

Gladiolus, Schwaben.

The Combination of Cannas With Other Bedding Plants Gives a Very Pleasing effect.

Cannas

Cannas require a deep rich soil. Well rotted stable manure is best suited for this, as it holds the moisture as well as gives plant food. Cannas require plenty of water at the blooming time. Plant deeply, about 18 inches apart, when danger of frost is over. Keep the weeds out of the bed by cultivation.

Cannas are very showy, growing to a good height and producing large flowers with very little effort. The foliage is pleasing, making a good appearance in mass plantings.

320 Cheerfulness. The deep orange flowers appear early and continue until frost. The foliage is a deep green and makes a pleasant contrast to the flowers. Grows about three and a half feet and looks well in a large bed or border. 25c each; 3 for 65c; 12 for $2.20; 25 for $4.20, postpaid.

321 Eureka. The perfectly formed creamy-white flowers stand above the deep green foliage on stiff stems. Growing to a height of about four feet. 35c each; 3 for 90c; 12 for $3.25; 25 for $6.30, postpaid.

322 Fanal. A very bright vermilion-red of remarkable beauty. A strong grower with a wealth of rich green foliage and large trusses of flowers. 20c each; 3 for 55c; 12 for $1.80; 25 for $3.50, postpaid.

323 Golden Gate. A bed of Golden Gate will be a wonderful sight. Grows about four feet. As the flowers open it is pure gold, becoming rayed with orange-crimson. The flowers are very large. 15c each; 3 for 40c; 12 for $1.20; 25 for $2.10, postpaid.

324 Hungaria. The best pink bedder. Flowers are large and a rose-pink, which immediately attracts attention. Green foliage. Grows about three feet high. 30c each; 3 for 85c; 12 for $3.00, postpaid.

325 King Humbert. The flowers are very large and well formed, of a brilliant orange-scarlet, with bright red markings. Tritoma—Red Hot Poker.

Peonies, Duchesse de Nemours.

Peonies

Peonies prefer a heavy loam but will do well in a good garden soil. It should be worked deep and well supplied with food material for three or four years supply, but be very careful that the roots do not come in contact with the manure. The soil should be well drained and away from the shade of trees or buildings. The roots should be planted so that the eyes will have a covering of two or three inches of soil. Peonies do better after being planted two or three years.

Peonies head the list of beautiful flowers. There is nothing more delightful than a plant covered with a mass of blooms. They come into bloom for Memorial Day, and as cut-flowers last remarkably well. Plant in the fall or spring in a well prepared bed. Cover the roots with not more than two inches of soil.
